Because of her ability to teach French and English and to be the sponsor of the Claw Staff, the students in the classes of this lady, feel that she devotes most of her time to helping them. Everyone thinks that she has a good personality, and she always seems to be in a good mood. Although she has a husband and two children to take care of, she is never too busy to help a student who needs help. This lady is deeply loved and appreciated for all of her time and the energy that she exerts.

So, in appreciation to you for the devotion and the time that you share with others, we, the Claw Staff, would like to dedicate the 1984 Claw to you, Mrs. Reida Snyder. Thanks for sharing your valuable time and talents with us.

Tina working hard for the deadline.

Kim's bark is worse than her bite.

Eight hundred and twenty-seven people came on 12 buses and 290 cars to spend 180 days together. Some were blond; some, brunette. Some were large, and some were small. Others were eager, while some were reluctant. But they all had one thing in common, they were at East for a reason.

How could all these people who were so different get along? It wasn't easy. No elected queen suited everyone. The best planned pep rally fell flat when some refused to participate. The room was too hot for some and too cold for others. Some wanted a test on Monday; others, on Tuesday.

So this is how it was throughout the year. We were all different, and it was because of this that even the same old things became new and exciting. We learned that we did not have to look, dress, or think alike to be alike. Sure, we liked the same soap operas. We all wore Levi's and Izod's. Braces, contacts, and printed t-shirts were all common place. We all shared the fun times — friendly chats, crazy talks, parties, and ballgames; but we also shared the not so fun times — exams, homework, and after school jobs.

All these things fitted together and united us as a group — a very special group.

May happiness be yours.

Kim

The Lazy Days Of Summer

The last day of school was a blessing to everybody. Everyone went in different directions. Some had their annual trips to the beaches and some took a trip to the mountains. Friends got together and went to different places and never lost touch with each other. The dedicated ones ended up at school practicing before the end of summer. Some went to camps — church, colorguard, cheerleading, and football. All agreed that summer was a time to get away from it all. However, some students stayed at home and worked the summer away. This summer was a great time to sip lemonade and walk down the beach with the wind at your back. All in all, this summer turned out to be what everyone expected it to be — that was a vacation from school.

When The Sun Goes Down . . .

Work seems to be on everyone's mind. After all, one needs as much money as he can get. For most, the end of school is not the end of the day. Many work until 11:00 or later, several nights a week.

Then comes the weekend, that time when all go wild. People spend the whole day getting ready for that special date or party. Then on Monday it's back to the same old thing, school and work. We survive, however, for it's only five days until TGIF.

Friends And Couples

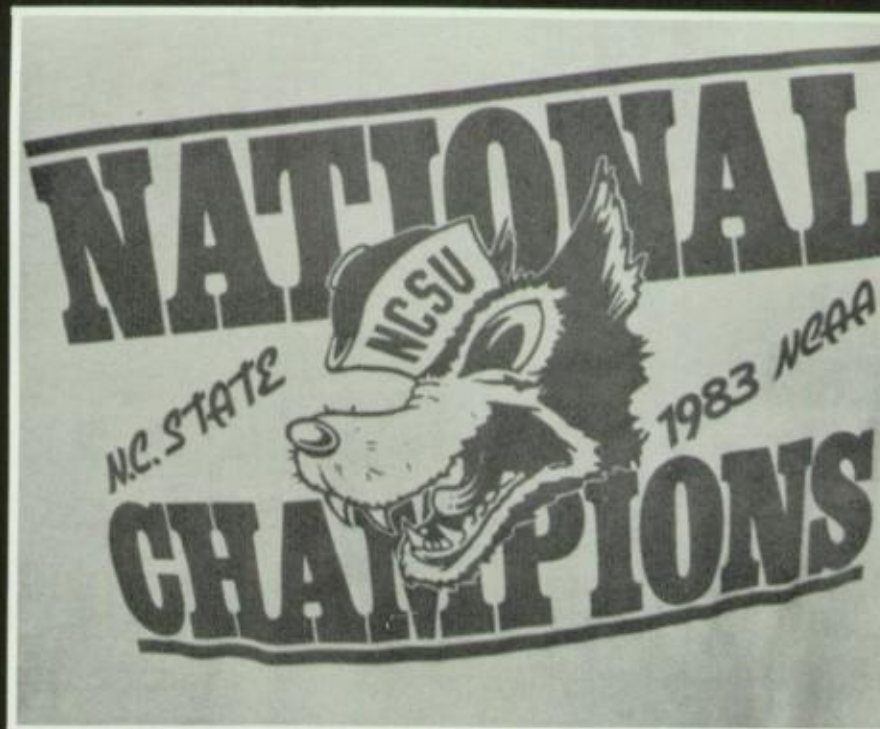

Throughout the school year, students developed many special relationships. Upon arrival at East, they came into a world of sharing and caring. They discovered new friends and found that special someone for which they had been searching. Classmates began to grow and learn together, sharing problems and fantasies. The hardest part of growing together, however, is knowing that someday the time will come in which friends have to go their separate ways.

Going In Style

Unique, quick changing fashions and ideas have livened up today's styles. Often, these unpredicted trends and fads left you in "A Daze of Craze". People have always seemed to discover new ways of expressing their interests which include anything from shoes and jewelry, to clothes and cartoons.

DANCING IN THE STREETS!

The week of Oct. 10 through Oct. 14 marked Homecoming '83. It began on Monday morning for most students, as they arrived to an eye-catching "Dancing in the Streets" poster placed on the catwalk. "Button-Up Day" started up the week. Donna Lewallen won a free ticket to the dance for making over twenty guys speak to her. Tuesday, New Wave Day, really got lots of people into the Homecoming spirit. Students wore mini-skirts, oversized sweat shirts, and other outrageous outfits. As Wednesday rolled around, several students "traded places." Stephanie Bell, Renee Ashworth, and Todd Byerly each won dance tickets for their super costumes of dresses, over-coats, and army greens. Everyone became fired up on Thursday, 'Fire-em Up' Day. Fireballs were everywhere, and nearly all of the student body was dressed in bright red. Friday was the big day, and it started out with the parade from Brown. After a rousing pep-rally, students went back to class but work was minimal due to excitement. Later that night, the Eagles played a thrilling game against Randleman. The dance following the game highlighted the week. Images, from Aseville, performed the top hits for the dancing Eagles. With musical notes hanging from the ceiling and streets signs everywhere, everyone felt that they were truly "Dancing in the Streets."

1983-84 SENIOR QUEENS

Being one of the five girls chosen to be a representative for the Class of 1984 is a tremendous honor. In some cases, interviews were a part of the responsibility. Others participated in many of the area parades.

Ask any of these girls and they would say they would do it all over again, for the memories and honor of having been selected will always be remembered.

"As the average junior arrives at East, he dreads the long venture to his parking place, usually which is in the back. Then the long journey begins from the back fence, dodging all the mud puddles into the cold, unwelcoming school.

The 8:10 bell rings as the freshmen become temporary road-blocks, and we literary run over them to get to our classes. After a drowsy 55 minutes in first period, the juniors stroll hesantly into homeroom. 'Get your doughnut money in,' is a common phrase known to the homeroom teacher.

By lunch we are finally awake, anticipating the final 3:10 bell. First, we must go through taking notes, cutting up, and gossip about the latest couples. At the closing of second break, most juniors drudgingly pull themselves to 6th period angrily thinking 'Why did they take early release away from the juniors?' and so ends the average day of a junior . . . but who has an average junior day?"

The class ring. The symbol of an upperclassmen, a symbol of a junior. As a sophomore, everyone waited for the day in which Mr. Kennerly came to give us our envelopes. Inside was a world of decisions. Gold, diamond, or onyx, which one would we choose? After the choices had been made, all there was left to do was wait — wait, and wait and wait. On that special day when the class rings were delivered, everyone made their traditional first turn which in the years to follow would never be forgotten.

One of the most trying periods in a junior's life was the time before the prom. Girls had to worry about being asked, while boys worried about who to ask. Each girl anxiously waited to hear the sentence, "Will you . . . uh . . . go to the . . . prom with me?" For boys, after asking the girl of their choice, many hours were spent praying that the girls they asked didn't have a jealous boyfriend. Then the couples got together and tried to coordinate their outfits. No one wanted to spend six months selling doughnuts to arrive at the prom in a green dress being escorted by an orange tux. However, as trying as the months before the prom seemed, it was one of the fondest memories in a junior's life.

T TO COME TRUE

On what day could you see 30 or 40 juniors walking around with proud smiling faces in jackets of old gold? These juniors had just been to their first Monogram Club meeting and obtained their letter jackets. The jackets were not necessarily cluttered with pins of football, basketball, cheerleading, etc.; but the pride most juniors felt was just as great. It did not matter if the weather was hot or cold; the satisfaction of having a letter jacket was felt all year long.

THE "CLASS"

For many juniors, taking the PSAT was a new experience. Some juniors were well-prepared, and some said the PSAT blew their minds. The PSAT was dreaded by many juniors, but the test was necessary for college acceptance. Most professionals said that the PSAT was just a small example of the SAT.

Thirty or forty of us got up at seven to come to school on a misty Saturday morning. We piled into a cold cafeteria to take this famed test of brain-wracking questions. When finally we heard the final "You may close your test booklets," we went home to take a much needed rest and worry about just how badly we did on the PSAT.

Ginny Norris — Miss Sophomore

After struggling to survive the hardships of one's freshman year, one finally became a sophomore. Not only did they have more responsibility, but now they were older and they had new horizons to expand. Not to mention that now they had younger people to pick on, as they pushed toward their future years as juniors and seniors.

OUR TIME IS COMING!!!

As we entered the halls of East Davidson on the first day of the new school year, we were greeted by new faces as well as the old familiar ones. The Freshman Class, often distinguished by their small stature and large number, found themselves feeling uneasy in their strange new surroundings while they tried to fit in. When the initial fear and confusion subsided, the freshmen were recognized and accepted as an essential part of the student body.

Hurry! We can't be late for class.

Being a high school freshman was not something that any Jr. High student looked forward to. Stacked lockers, wrong directions, class rings, and practical jokes became dreaded thoughts in the minds of all freshmen and comprised what was known as the disadvantages of being an underclassman. The first few weeks were like an initiation, but once one got over the rough spots and became familiar with the routine, the advantages of high school life soon outweighed the disadvantages.

Below: "Is this a line-up?"
 Right: Boy, I needed that!

The most important difference between Jr. High and high school was the feeling of growing up and moving on. Every freshman experienced it at some time during the year. Freshmen took on new responsibilities and were allowed greater privileges that offered a chance to improve and to succeed. Most freshmen quickly realized that they had the freedom to make their own decisions and that the future was theirs to choose. The right decisions along with good friends and good times made the freshman year the beginning of a successful high school career.

ADMINISTRATION

During his second year of performing the role of the East Davidson Golden Eagles' principal, Mr. Benjamin Terrell had accomplished another magnificent year of hard work. Mr. Terrell, always friendly and understanding, had a way of getting along with just about everyone. He represented the Eagles splendidly in both spirit and attitude and supported them in all things.

The maintenance crew strikes again!!

Mr. Evan Myers became one of the highly visible people in the halls during school hours during his second year of being vice-principal. He maintained his school spirit enthusiastically and offered a generous helping hand in all school events.

Together Mr. Terrell and Mr. Myers made a terrific team and accomplished ideas, plans, and goals. The Golden Eagles' school had turned out to be the best in the county with the help of our two incredibly, enthusiastic leaders.

ADVISORY COUNCIL & SUPERINTENDENTS

The Advisory Council of 1983-84 had many responsibilities. This important group of people accomplished many things without the knowledge of the student body. These accomplishments were very helpful to the East Davidson Golden Eagles and served to better our school. We wished to thank this group for their outstanding performances as our Golden Eagles' Advisory Council.

BEHIND THE SCENES

Mr. Thad Hartley — Associate Superintendent

Not always recognized but always there were our superintendents. These men supervised the events occurring at each school in the county. Our superintendents of 1983-84 worked with others to improve our school system and expand our school programs. Although they were not highly visible, this diligently hard-working group of men kept our school system running smoothly and efficiently.

This year the council certainly worked overtime on such projects as the Christmas Dance, Halloween movie, and other items for the benefit of East's students.

PTSA

The purpose of the PTSA was to get parents, students, and teachers to work together as a team and become involved in the school and its programs. The organization sponsored several activities throughout the year. On October 25-26, Charlotte Roberts presented sessions on parenting and parent-teen relationships. A membership drive was sponsored by the Membership Chairperson, Vickie Westmoreland, and a bake sale was held on November 19 at the Christmas Parade. A financial workshop was held in January to help parents and students prepare for college expenses. The biggest project of the PTSA was the Junior-Senior Breakfast, which followed the Junior-Senior Prom.

Band Boosters

The 1983-84 year was very successful for the Band Boosters. Through hard and diligent work, they were able to surpass many of their goals. Donations, car washes, and pizza sales enabled them to purchase new uniforms for the entire band. They also supported the band by promoting their fruit sale and helping at the Haunted Trail. The money earned from the trail and the fruit sale went toward the band's trip to Disney World in Florida. Monthly, the Band Boosters sponsored a Lions Club supper. President Don Craft sent a special thanks to all the parents and boosters for their great support and enthusiasm. Also he thanked them for their assistance, moral support, and good attendance at competitions and meetings.

Athletic Boosters

The purpose of the Athletic Boosters was to raise money for all athletic projects and activities. Through all their support, they were the backbone of the athletes and their activities. They sponsored many fund raisers such as a steak dinner and an auction. Ads for the football program and sold items at the concession stands during basketball and football games also contributed to the program.

BAND

CONCERT, JAZZ, & PEP BAND

Michael and James are enthusiastic drummers.

At the closing of the marching season, many of the Marching Eagles turned in their uniforms for a little rhythm and soul. This group of special Eagles showed their talents for music through their participation in the Concert, Jazz, and Pep Bands. This gave them a chance to have fun and enjoy themselves while playing their instruments.

The Concert and Jazz Bands performed a variety of songs for the students from such schools as Brown Jr. High, Pilot, and Fairgrove. The Pep Band played during pep rallies and at the basketball games. After their performances, they always left their audiences with smiles on their faces.

A harmonious sound was often heard echoing from the auditorium during fourth period. Although always working hard on a new song, the chorus combined diligence with fun. The seventeen members of this special group performed with the band at the Christmas and Spring Concerts. Also traveling to Pilot and Fairgrove, the chorus performed for the elementary students.

In May of 1983, 28 girls were picked to be on the 1983-1984 East Davidson Color-guard Squad. Each girl started the marching season with determination and esprit de corps. All the girls decided if they were going to have a winning marching season all of them would have to work hard. Many hours were spent practicing after school and on Saturday mornings before competitions. Each member knew they had to put all their problems aside and learn the routines. The Flag chief Tina Byerly, and Flag co-chief Amy Stanley worked hard to teach the flags their routine. During the marching season the flags were determined they were going to win a first place trophy so each one buckled down and ate and slept with their routine on their mind. When it came time for Wake Forest Competition the flags walked away with a first place trophy. The Rifle chief Hope McLeMore, and Rifle co-chief, Lora Smith said to the rifles, "We had a number #1 season last year and we're going to have a #1 season this year." The rifles worked hard and brought two first place trophies home.

Most of the recognition goes to the managers. The managers helped with everything. It took a lot of guts to get yelled and fussed at, but the managers did not mind because they were the best.

Not just anyone can pick up a flag or rifle and twirl it. It takes practice, and a good attitude. These girls gave it their best shot!!!!

Colorguard means extra special memories and bundles of pride. From friends passing out by one's side and having so-called "friends" squirting shaving cream all over each other's entire body to winning the 1st place rating in your class — that was what color-guard was all about. Friends made even more friends. Marching off that field of competition, one gained a bit of self-respect that could never be replaced.

From the first time one picked up that flag or rifle, one knew that only hard work could make things work. So over the summer they gave up relaxing mornings in the pool for sweating under the blazing sun, but it was all worth it.

THE MARCHING EAGLES

This year East's Marching Eagles, decked out in their bright new uniforms, thrilled everyone with their dazzling performances. The band, led by Drum Majorette Tonya Sullivan, competed in a total of four contests, three of which they took 1st place, "Band of the Day."

As the Eagle fans filled Groves Stadium on October 29th, they knew that this, the last performance for the Marching Eagles, would be their finest. Everyone held their breath in anticipation as bright yellow lines formed on the field below. East Davidson entered the "field of competition" with a snappy salute by the drum majorette. Everyone sat back to enjoy the award winning show as the band played their opening piece "Can Opener," highlighted by a solo performed by Brian Guffey. Next the crowd rocked to the rhythmic drum beat of "White Russia," featuring fantastic field formations and the award winning East Davidson Drum Corps.

After an arousing round of applause, the fans found themselves swinging to "Dancing Man," a jazz piece with solos by Joey Hedrick and Ronnie Russell. After enjoying the excitement generated from "Dancing Men", the crowd was keyed up for the closure "Just You and I", which featured a duet by Joey Hedrick and Vonda Wright. The spectacular performance brought the crowd to their feet as the senior band members on the field found a tear in their eye, for they knew that they would never again perform as a member of the mighty "Marching Eagles."

CLUBS

The Chess and Backgammon Club.

This year, like last year, the Chess and Backgammon Club did not have officers; however, there was a four person committee — Ricky Dilldine, Joe Albertson, Harold Blair, and Shana Russell. This committee decided to set up a chess and backgammon competition. First, second, and third place trophies were given to the winners.

The sponsor, Mrs. Williford, and all the other club members participated in the Chicken Pickin' that was held on December 17. Money made by the club was used to purchase chess and backgammon sets.

Strategy is an important facet of both games.

The Jr.-Sr. Steering Committee worked hard this year to design the "1984" prom. The Jr.-Sr. Steering committee was divided into two groups. One was the theme committee and the other was the band committee. The band committee attended the Battle of the Bands in Charlotte in the fall. They chose one band to play at the prom that they felt was best suited for the ones that attended the prom. The committee worked hard throughout the year raising money for the prom. The juniors sold doughnuts four times during the '83-'84 school year. The 1983-1984 Jr.-Sr. Steering Committee hoped to make the prom the best one ever.

The goal and purpose of the Future Homemakers of America Club was to help youth assume their roles in society through home economics education in areas of personal growth, family life, vocational preparation and community involvement.

FHA officers were President — Connie Hunt, Vice President — Serena Nealey, Secretary — Tammy Beck, Treasurer — Donna Summerlin, and Reporter and Activity Chairperson — Karen Shaw.

What is FBLA? FBLA stands for Future Business Leaders of America. The club is for students who are presently taking some kind of business course at East Davidson. The courses range anywhere for Business Math to Office Occupations II. Many members will continue their business courses in high school and others in college. FBLA helps them get a start and some understanding of what the real business world is like. Many students will be the business leaders of the future. All have potential to succeed in the business world.

There were many activities that took place in FBLA. One activity of the club was to sell chicken dinner tickets for the month of December. This activity helped to raise money for the club. Another activity was called "Deck the Halls" that not only FBLA joined in.

They had many interesting speakers for the club. Mrs. Wilson, who teaches business classes at East, spoke to the members on study skills. The other speaker was Mrs. Helen Walser. Mrs. Walser spoke on self-esteem and had the members to take part in many activities to make them feel good about themselves.

FBLA is an interesting club that more students should take part in. It helps to better prepare us for what lies ahead of us in the business world of the future.

From the selling of ads in the summer to the annual presentation in the spring, this staff stuck together through thick and thin. With this in mind, the 1984 Claw Staff was proud to present East Davidson with EAGLEMANIA, the 1984 Claw.

PROMISES, PROMISES

Randy,

So this year's almost over. And over half of the hell-raisers won't be back next year. So I guess I'll just have to take care of that. It's been a pleasure getting to know you. I hope we can become better friends in the future years. Thank for all of your help on Prom-Night. I really appreciated it. Hope we can do it again some other time.

TOGETHER ALWAYS

Randy,

We've had lots of happiness in the past year. I'm looking forward to the years ahead of us. You've been a part of many of the most special moments of my life. There are going to be many more together shared together in the future. We will be together always, no matter what. Always remember who loves you the most. Me!

Love Always,
Vanessa
